

YOU WILL NEED

A strip of paper to fold into four sections, and some coloured crayons.

TEXTURE JOURNEY MAP

1.

Take a strip of paper and fold it in half, and then in half again.

2.

Explore the area looking for different textures. Can you find interesting tree bark, or the rough surface of a building?

4.

Collect four different textures on your sheet. Try to use a different colour for each.

3.

Place your paper over the surface you want to record and gently rub the side of your crayon over it until you see the texture start to come through.

5.

Swap sheets with your partner and try to follow their texture map.

There are lots of different textures that can be found in nature!
